Contemporary Therapy:
Quality of Care and Prognosis
in Periodontology and Implantology

for Dentists, Dental Hygienists and Students

RIMINI

MARCH 21-23, 2024

Palazzo del Congressi

Dearest Friends,

with immense pleasure I present to you the 23rd SidP National Congress, titled Quality of Care and Prognosis in Periodontology and Implantology, the first cultural event of my two-year Presidency.

Excellence and Evidence will be the key words of the two-year period that is opening. These two words are fundamental in a context of complex clinical modernity, where knowing how to choose effective therapies, predictable in the long term and oriented towards respect for the patient is truly fundamental. These will be the two key words of the Congress, three beautiful engaging days, as the usual tradition of the SidP community, that wants to bring together the best clinicians and researchers on stage together, with the active and enthusiastic contribution of a first-rate audience.

The Congress will start on Thursday offering three pre-congress courses, one completely in the hands of brilliant young starting lecturers, another one entrusted to a great expert on periodontal surgery and finally a course on patient motivation. There will also be the traditional events dedicated to young colleagues, to the research, the clinics, the Companies, the H. Goldman Award and all other scientific competitions.

On Friday, the Congress will be completely focused on the quality of periodontal and implant care and long-term prognosis. We will try to understand how patient clinical elements influence the long-term success of teeth and implants in patients with periodontitis, and we will ask ourselves how and when periodontal surgery or implants benefit the patient. As always, we will look for solid answers based on data and will try to understand which elements can influence success in various clinical settings.

On Saturday, the program will focus on the prognosis of multidisciplinary cases and how other disciplines can interact in clinical scenarios of periodontitis. In particular, we will stage something new with two great Clinicians in comparison, who will take us on the journey of the quality of care, combining clinical skill and scientific evidence, wondering what has changed and what would we do differently today. At the same time there will be a beautiful Congress reserved for Dental Hygienists which, thanks to extraordinary Speakers, will constitute a journey into the complex problems of the aging patient, with the implications of systemic health, maintenance of motivation and all their periodontal and implant consequences.

The Saturday afternoon After Congress will continue to be a unique event, with a Training camp for Dentistry Student Members who were already AISO Members and three theoretical courses held by super Experts.

I'm sure they will be three wonderful days, in which we will be able to interact with the greatest minds and ask questions and find answers, but more than anything else, nourish enthusiasm and passion for our beautiful profession. They will be, as always, three days of friendship and sincere passion. I'm waiting for you in Rimini to greet you one by one, don't miss this opportunity!

SidP is you!
